BAA LAUNCHES THEIR REVAMPED WEBSITE

The British Aggregates Association (BAA) have revised and refreshed their website with the support and assistance of the membership who have been adding the final tweaks and twirls during the last month. The site is managed by our website design company E-Cat partners of Sunderland www.e-catpartners.co.uk

The site will be launched and go live this week to coincide with the BAA Executive in Coventry on Thursday (6th) and ahead of the annual industry get-together at the Institute of Quarrying Symposium and Conference at the Hilton Hotel (6th and 7th).

Notes to editors:

1. The British Aggregates Association is the representative trade body for independent quarry operators www.british-aggregates.co.uk
2. The Association represents some 70 members across the UK producing around 10% of national output from over 100 individual sites
3. The Association was formed to fight the imposition of the ill-conceived Aggregates Levy and to protect the independent quarry sector from the increasing dominance of the major operators.
4. The Association participates fully with all EU and UK consultations on environmental, economic, and health and safety legislation; and is an active member of the Confederation of British Industry (CBI) Minerals Committee, and the Construction Products Association (CPA).
5. BAA has an appeal pending on the Aggregates Tax awaiting judgement from the European Court of Justice in Luxembourg.
